The List (page 16-17)

We think these young Scottish artists are worth investing in right away

Moyna Flannigan

For her dark and slightly disturbing painted caricatures, Flannigan - who was born in Scotland but received her MFA from Yale - has built something of a cult following. www.doggerfisher.com/artists

Luke Fowler

Primarily known for his video works, which have won him the Derek Jarman Award and the Donald Dewar Prize, and have been broadcast on Channel 4. www.themoderninstitute.com/artists/9

Jonathan Owen

Found photographic collages, papier mache drainpipes and grand metal sculptures are all part of the Liverpoolian Owen's diverse output. www.doggerfisher.com/artists

Alice Myers

A Jerwood Photography Award winner in 2008, Myers - an Edinburgh College of Art graduate - produces photographic series which take in action portraiture and documentary urban landscapes. www.alicemyers.net

Alex Frost

Frost's drawing and ceramic reliefs are painstakingly composed, particularly the hand-pixelated effect of his continuing series of Blind Drawings. www.sorchadallas.com/artists/11

Paul Chiappe

A Kirkcaldy-born graduate of Edinburgh College of Art, Chiappe produces pencil-drawn reproductions of black and white photographs. www.paulchiappe.co.uk

Craig Mullholland

Born and based in Glasgow, Mullholland uses a variety of media and his work takes many forms, incorporating video, music, sculpture, text, sound works and drawing. www.sorchadallas.com/artists/3

Ellie Harrison

About to graduate from an MFA at Glasgow School of Art, Harrison produces art that encompasses high-concept installation, sculpture and printed work. Read about her Vending Machine project in Noticeboard, page 7. www.ellieharrison.com
